It's so convenient to keep a package of Kellogg's ALL-BIAN in the it also as a healthful ingredient in your cooking. For muffins, breads, omelets, waffles, etc.

ALL-BRAN brings your family the "bulk" that is so helpful in cor recting common constipation.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. In severe cases, with each meal. How much better than risking patent medicines!

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" vitamin B to aid regular habits. This "bulk" is similar to that in leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

Special processes of cooking and flavoring make Kellogg's ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable than ordinary raw bran.

And because it is all branwith only flavoring added - it brings you more "bulk" than partbran products.

Woods Survey in South Shows Advantages for Pulp Industry

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, March 29.—The 11 southern states extending from Virginia to Texas constitute a vast forest empire which aside from its timber resources offers tremendous possibilities for the development of a great paper and pulp industry, according to a survey just made public here by the United States forestry service of the department of agriculture.

In a report to the department here, Director E. L. Demmon, of the southern forest experiment station at New Orleans, declared that the southern states, as a field for forestry development, have outstanding advantages among which are approximately 200, 600,000 acres of forest or cut-oyer land with a possible volume of annual wood production under a program of adequate forest protection and management which is capable of proving a highly important factor in the economic and social process of the south.

Senators To Join.

Both Senator Walter F. George and Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia, will join with the house members in vigorously opposing adoption of the proposed code amendment.

Among the south's advantages in forestry, Mr. Demmon listed its great number of valuable fast-growing native time times and the south of the so tive timber species, its long growing season, its abundant rainfall, the comparatively easy conditions for log-ging, the relative ease and low cost at which forest crops can be produced, and proximity of great timber mar-

AMERICAN RADIATOR TO DOUBLE CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, March 19 .- A news-NEW YORK, March 19.—A newspaper advertising campaign approximately twice as large as its entire newspaper advertising program during 1933, will be conducted by the American Radio Company this spring, according to announcement from Arthur R. Outside of the 14,000,000 acres of original virgin timber that remains uncut an equal area has been so severely cut or burned that it will not reproduce naturally in commercial quantities within 20 years, Demmon asserted. The remainder of the commercial forest area, 163,000,000 acres, is in second growth ranging from seedlings to saw timber, which had replaced the original forest stands. This ability to regenerate rapidly and produce saw timber at an early age is important in the practice of forestry in the south.

To Employees of the Automobile Industry

This Is What Is Happening:

The American Federation of Labor and other outside unions are trying to force you to join their union and to pay dues to support professional labor leaders.

They are trying to destroy the present satisfactory arrangement between you and the management under which your right to collective bargaining is fully recognized.

These employee representation plans — which the labor leaders call company unions—have been set up by more than 80 per cent of the employees themselves. They are working satisfactorily. Any one of you can see his supervisory officer at any reasonable time and settle any questions that may arise. Most of the questions that have come up have been peacefully settled.

No one has to join any union. Your employment does not depend on your membership or non-membership in any organization. It depends on merit alone.

The outside labor leaders are trying by force, by coercion, by intimidation of you and your families and threat of strike to make you join their union. Regardless of what you want, these labor leaders want the right to speak for all of you. They want dues—paying members—but the N. I. R. A. does not say that the American Federation of Labor or any other union shall speak for you.

It is up to each one of you to decide for yourself whether these outside unions can secure any right that you cannot secure for yourself.

It is up to you to say whether you want to surrender to professional labor leaders your own right to deal with the management of your companies. To get what they want, regardless of what you want, the American Federation of Labor is using its usual weapons, namely, a threat to call a strike.

Sunday's newspapers quoted William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, as saying: "The question as to whether a strike in the automobile industry, involving more than 100,000 workers, shall or shall not occur Wednesday morning, March 21, rests with the automobile manufacturers. Their decision will decide the question. The cause of the strike is directly traceable to the attempt of the automobile manufacturers to impose company unions upon their workers and to force them to accept."

That is not the issue.

You know that the companies have not coerced you into employee representation plans.

You well know that you have taken part voluntarily in setting of employee representation plans.

You know, too, that hours have been shortened voluntarily to an annual average of 36 hours per week, that wage rates have been increased more than 30 per cent within the past year and in many cases are higher than they were in 1929 at the peak of prosperity, and that twice as many men are at work today as during the depression.

There is only one fundamental issue here, namely:

Whether the automobile industry is to be run by the American Federation of Labor or any other outside union;

Whether you have to get a union card in order to work in these plants:

Whether your job and your advancement in the industry will be based on merit:

Whether the employee representative shall be trusted in favor of outside labor leaders who have interests to serve other than your interests.

If the strike comes, it won't be because you want to strike.

The strike threat comes from the American Federation of Labor and not from the automobile workers.

Let there be no misunderstanding as to the companies' attitude toward the automobile representation plans.

The automobile manufacturers intend to abide by the employee representation plans as they may be modified from time to time by the employees themselves. And, bear this in mind, the automobile industry is unquestionably leading the way back to prosperity. People are buying more automobiles than they have been for years.

This increased demand means more jobs at good wages—not only in the automobile industry, but in thousands of other industries supplying materials and parts to the automobile manufacturers.

A strike at this time will not only work hardship on you and your families, but will interfere with the recovery efforts of the President of the United States.

The automobile industry has reached its present state of high efficiency, low cost, with the consequent wide demand for its products, high wages and plentiful jobs without the help of the American Federation of Labor and without any serious labor trouble.

Unasked and unwanted, the American Federation of Labor is now trying to get control of this industry and destroy what we have taken years to build.

This industry does not intend to yield to such un-American and unpatriotic procedure.

BETTER PAVING NECESSARY.

Warned by the demand for greater safety and lasting qualities made necessary by the increase in speed and weight of this year's automobile models, the American Road Builders' Association at its recent annual meeting in Washington gave serious consideration to the problem of meeting the new requirements in the construction and maintenance of highways.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON.

PLAYTIME WASHINGTON, March 19.—It looks as if President Roosevelt has stopped playing cat and mouse with congress-but appearances are deceiving.

The benign expression on the cat's face indicates he has other things in mind than letting the mice run wild.

True, he has permitted them to frolic and make faces at him without raising a paw seriously against them. He has let them even tweak his nose on the St. Lawrence treaty, bonus, vets and pay cuts. Soon he will go off quietly to sun himself down south. But the mice are not going to run away with the capitol, so be not disturbed.

PURPOSE The mice are up for re-election this year and the cat is not.

If they were kept under strict subjection they would become spiritless. The illusion of a dictatorship would be too real.

It is much better to let them run and play politically, as long as they do not get serious. Thus far they have not. Their bonus is foredoomed. The St. Lawrence treaty which they ruined will be revised and resubmitted, probably in better form. Their silver grimacing cannot have any important effect on the administration's silver policy. They will be held within reasonable limits on the vets and wage cuts.

But the big point is that each one of these things will make votes for them back home.

The president can afford to sacrifice some temporary prestige.

SILVER This unexpected consideration for the mice is so strange they are not sure it is real, or how long it will last. Last Saturday, Speaker Rainey had the scare of his life. He had given the papers a statement that Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's opposition to the silver proposals was ill-conceived. Furthermore, he promised to let the house vote soon on the silver bill opposed

Mr. Morgenthau. Shortly after the publication of the speaker's promise, he was sitting with some of his cronies when word came that the White House wanted him on the telephone. Plain, he was disturbed. He thought he was going to catch it. Looking worried, he went to the telephone.

A few minutes later he came back with a mousey grin spread all over his face, and whispered:
"He didn't say a word about silver."

POLITICS Mr. Morgenthau has been more worried about the silver business than anyone else.

He is too honest to be much of a politician, and that metal has strong political backing. The speculators, who cleaned up on gold, have been expecting a similar cleanup for themselves on silver. Inner Wall Street circles say that so much of the metal is being held in New York that storage places for it are at a premium. Mr. Morgenthau's blunt assertion that some of the silver agitators are "not entirely disinterested" and that silver action is not necessary now brought a political hornet's nest tumbling down on his bald brow. So much pressure was exerted that he called in newsmen and explained he had not meant to say the house silver bloc members had invested in silver stocks.

The root of the matter is that the administration has been fooled once or twice by silver politicians and is giving warning that it will not be fooled again.

AMBITION Mr. Morgenthau is going to make a name for himself in the treasury job. The politicians thought when he was appointed he would merely be an errand boy for the

The Sad Story of Two Parents, Two Bulls and a Victim -By Robert Quillen-

A certain child had parents who loved him not wisely but too well. Every moment of his life one or both of them watched him as a cat vatches a mouse, and their ordinary speech gave him the impression that all proper sentences begin with "Don't." Their ambition was to make him act right and speak right and believe right, which is to say that they wished him to be just like them-If the child attempted to do anything in a manner prompted by own reason, he was promptly rebuked. If he persisted, he was spanked. In his early teens he often attempted to be original, but these rebellions always ended in defeat.

"Why shouldn't I wear a green tie with this shirt?" he would ask.

And his mother would answer sweetly: "Because it isn't good taste, dear."
"But it's my taste," he would insist. "And it's my tie. If it suits "That will do, dear," his mother would say. "You must learn to do what is right." Well, things went on that way until he was 16. His parents told him how to have his hair cut, how to sharpen his lead pencil, how to lie in bed, how much sugar to use in his coffee. If he used the telephone, they interrupted to tell him the right way to address central.

So at 16, being as near right as parents could make him, he was ready to face the world. One morning he left the house and followed a path along the face of physical education.

Any family physician who is worthy of confidence at all is perfectly competent to treat pronated feet or other common foot troubles. Above all, if stood behind him. He was trapped.

A moment later he heard a bellow and looked up to see a wild built charging down upon him. Instinctively he turned, but another bull stood behind him. He was trapped.

But, alas! No parent was there to tell him the right thing to do and his own mind wouldn't click, so he stood and took it.

Ideal Weather Conditions Prevail Along Seven of Eight Routes.

- - Fair Enough

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

CADET PUB NEW YORK, March 19 .- Here it is along toward the spring of the year and, for the first time since 1920, the billy goat with the cork-screw horns beckons the citizens to chafe their vest buttons against cherry-wood bars and tie into big, creamy crocks of that dark, molasses beer called bock. I do not believe I ever had any truck with bock beer but if I did it must have been a pretty ordinary sort of wash because it has left me no active longing. But, at the moment, I am thinking of a man by the name of Mike Maxie who ran a saloon outside the military reservation at West Point until prohibition time and, after that ran a smaller was the control of the that ran a speakeasy until a year or so ago when he up and died of that ran a speakeasy until a year or so ago when he up and died of lonesomeness and a broken heart. If Mike Maxie had managed to stick it out a little longer he would be a very happy saloon keeper about now, drawing his blade across the rims of the crocks and sliding them along the damp wood in the cool shadows of his little place which clings to the side of a hill in a scrubby part of the town like a piece of lint on a fuzzy coat. Maxie's was the officers' pub during prohibition but he was closed out shortly after General William D. Connor, the present commanding officer of the post, relieved General William R. Smith. He didn't last long beyond that. I was speaking of Maxie's place a little while ago with an officer who had put in quite some time at West Point and he said he thought that some day, when prohibition had become a romantic and gruesome memory, the people of the military academy might come to think of him as other generations of officers have thought of Benny Havens, the first West Point bootlegger, and the only bootlegger who ever was honored in a college anthem. Benny Havens ran a pub for officers on the reservation in the days before the Civil War but was heaved off by some general of the time for selling strong beverages to the cadets. He then set up another plant outside the grounds. It says in the little West Point book that Edgar Allan Poe, when he was a cadet, spent much of his time moping and dramming in Benny Havens' pub and wrote in one of his letters that Benny Havens was the only human and congenial character in the whole God-forsake place. Mr. Poe never caught the true spirit of the corps of cadets.

SENTIMENTAL Benny Havens had no right to sell rum to cadets so he was a bootlegger. But the people of the academy did not regard him unkindly and one year at a class reunion some young officer got to brooding about him and wrote a sentimental doggerel called "Benny Havens, O!" to the tune of 'The Wearin' of the Green" which became the alma mater song of West Point. In my time, covering football games in which West Point teams were implicated, I have seen the corps of cadets and the officers hoist up, remove their caps and swing them from side to side in slow unison as the whole lot of them sang, soft and low, the song which begins, "In the army there's sobriety; promotion's very slow—." You might think to look at the corps and the very slow—." You might think to look at the corps and the officers, that there was no sentiment on the post but if you should see how the people carry on at the exercises during June week you would know otherwise. There will be aimy mothers, whose kin-people have been army for generations, dabbing at their eyes and other mothers who haven't the faintest idea what the army is all shout including some in non-very get-up, and fathers with plaster. about, including some in poor, rusty get-up, and fathers with plaster about, including some in poor, rusty get-up, and tathers with plaster showing through the blacking on their shoes, standing all together and choking back the sobs. In some cases, they do a poor job of choking them back. It gets them. It gets everybody. I do not recall correctly whether it was during the time of General Smith or during General Connors' time that they quit singing "Benny Havens, O!" at the football games. But they cut it out a few years ago and an officer told me that they did so because the general thought this was an undignified tonic to be singing about so feelingly with cane was an undignified topic to be singing about so feelingly with caps waving to and fro. It seemed that with Grant and Pershing and all of those alumni the academy could find a better subject for a song although it would be hard to imagine people singing sentially of "John J. Pershing, O!". And if the truth could be known, General Grant probably cultivated his taste for that fighting whisky which President Lincoln wished he could buy a few barrels of for his other generals, in odd moments at Benny Havens' place.

OUT OF BOUNDS During prohibition time the officer who wished to take his ease in his pub discovered in Mike Maxie a discreet and conscientious host. He sold the best Jersey syndicate beer and, though he always kept a few pints of hooch behind the bar, he recommended his apple-liquor which probably was the beverage that put Rip Van Winkle to sleep in those very hills that time. The apple-liquor is the wine of the country and it was pure, if green and rowdy. He also served hamburgers, which weren't anything special, and his little place was cut up into several untidy little snuggeries where a couple of officers could sit secure and have a dram on their own time in violation of the same constitution that civilians were equally bound to uphold. They used to say that General Smith had a defective sense of smell, which was nice of him, but when General Connor took over the military academy the word went around that he was no ostrich-general. He could not be relied on to stick his head in the sand and he could smell fumes a mile and around corners. So Mike Maxie's place became, by common consent, out of bounds and the successor to Benny Havens found himself dealing them over the bar and in the little rooms to a lot of civilian villagers. He had been proud to run the officers' speakeasy all that time and he missed them now and felt as though he had been unjustly accused of doing something un-patriotic. Well, so Mike Maxie died. I do not know where they put him but by rights he should lie alongside Benny Havens in the burying ground up the hill.

You've Felt the Same Way About This Time of Year

The news of the day, of course, is that Bobby Jones is to swing back into golf competition this week at Augusta.

I cannot hold with the boys who say, suavely and confidentially, "it is Jones against the field," or "Jones is an even money bet to win." There are too many good golfers in that field to make any such trite statements.

The boys may be right. Jones may do it once more. But I can't lump his opposition simply as "the field." It isn't that sort of a golf tournament.

That is the news, of course, but some other news keeps at the start of the sixth and was replaced by Philip Page, who was knicked for two runs in the sixth and yielded the mound in the eighth to Emil Leonard.

The old blind mule was something like the song which Miss Eva Tanguay used to sing, "I Don't Care." When the redfish makes up his mind he doesn't nibble or do any preliminary pulling. He strikes and goes away from there.

I wonder what sort of a fisherman the president is, anyhow? Someone ought to be assigned to cover his fishing. I'd like to know if he swears when he hooks a big one and begins to work him in. Or if he grunts. And how his face looks when he feels the fish hit and the reel goes "whir-wir-wir-whirrrr-wir-wir" and the

I keep trying to think about Bobby Jones. But every time the golf club in his hands becomes a fishing rod and I can feel the sun on my neck and the glare of the water in my face. There seems to be nothing one can do about it.

HOW ARE HIS LEGS?

Wilbert Robinson was packing to go to Macon, where his Crackers are training.

He had been listening for an hour to an argument regarding the chances of Bobby Jones in the Masters' tournament this week at Augusta. Mr. Robinson had taken no part in the argument, which had reached an impasse.

"How are his legs?" he asked suddenly.

"Whose legs?" said one of the reporters.
"Bobby Jones, of course," he said. "That's all he's got to worry about. I've listened to you fellows argue about what the lay-off of four years has done to his competitive game. His game is all right. What he needs to worry about is his legs and his dogs. A lay-off never did the dogs of an athlete any good. And no athlete is any better than his dogs. If he cannot walk around that course for four days, he cannot win," said Wilbert Robinson, strapping up two trunks.

It has long been Wilbert Robinson's contention that the feet and legs are the most important item in training an athlete. If pressed he will argue that all a musician or writer has to do to get into top playing or writing form is to get his legs in shape.

"Are you going to Augusta?" he demanded of the reporter.

" said the reporter. "Then tell Jones I said to watch out for his legs. If his legs are all right he will win. That's all he has to worry about-his legs." Whereupon he picked up the two trunks, one in each hand, and put them out in the hall. There is nothing wrong with the legs of Wilbert Robinson.

THE ENGLISH REPORT ON JONES.

Mr. Bernard Darwin, the distinguished English golf writer, has some pertinent comment on Jones' return to competitive golf in this month's issue of "English Country Life."

"There have lately come to us two pieces of golfing news from America, both of which seem to me interesting. The first, which has rather a ghoulish interest, is that Bobby Jones, after nearly four years of retirement, is going to tempt fate and 'come back' in a tournament bearing the sonorous title of the 'Augusta National Open,' in which all the greatest professionals of the United States will be ranged against

I call the interest ghoulish because one knows quite well what a 'ballyhoo' will be raised if Bobby does not do himself-The crowd will seethe round him to the exclusion of all the other champions, and every stroke he makes, every word he lets drop, will be reported in columns and columns of language mildly to be described as picturesque. Everybody will want him to play well, but if by any chance he does not, what a talk there will be of suns having set, pitchers having gone too often to the well, and all the rest of it!
"If we regard this event from a reasonable point of view Bobby's fame cannot be in the least affected by his not winning this tournament. He has done all that he possibly can do, and his position as a golfer is settled once and for all and absolutely secure. Yet, however well know this, and however often he may say it to himself, we can hardly expect him, when he sets out on his round, to realize it as calmly and mpartially as we do. When a young and unknown David goes out to play a famous Goliath, we tell him that he has everything to gain and nothing to lose, and that, therefore, there is no cause for his being nervous; but we must be persons of very little imagination if we expect him not to be nervous accordingly. So in this case we shall not think Bobby by one hairsbreadth the lesser golfer, whatever heads the does; but it is asking too much of him on that account to be perfectly care-free. it is asking too much of him on that account to be perfectly care-free

"It appears that he has, in casual rounds, been doing 67's and 68's round his native course at Atlanta, in quite the old way; he knows all there is to know about the Augusta course, and no doubt he will come to the post in the best condition. But he has not for four years been playing golf under strain, and it is not in his nature not to feel the strain; indeed, it was partly because he felt it so acutely, and yet mashimself has declared that there are two games, golf and competitive golf. Undoubtedly he can play the one as well as ever he did; the almost painfully exciting question is whether or not he has grown a little rusty in the other. I remember, some six or seven years ago, taking part in a was one of the mildest possible importance. Among the competitors was one of the greatest golfers that ever lived, who had always been at this best in score play. He confessed that, after a rather long abstinence from it, the fact of a card and pencil had made him feel quite uncomfortable. A fortiori Bobby will feel uncomfortable at Augusta. However, in old days the more uncomfortable he felt the better he played, and perhaps that rule will apply again. It certainly will be the most gorgeous and romantic fun if he wins."

And it will be gorgeous and romantic fun if he wins."

MACON EMBARRASSED.

Macon will probably have the worst spring weather in her history. The moment a city becomes a baseball training camp site it develops bad weather. I recall the fate of Douglas, Ga. Douglas had been having sunny springs. When the Crackers went there to train it rained every day for two weeks.

Orioles Used To Run Back From Ball Park

Robby Pleased With Abbott's Program in Training Camp at Macon.

By Jimmy Jones.

MACON, Ga., March 19.—It was raining today in the camp of the Crackers and your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, who came down from Atlanta Sunday night, was telling the boys a rainy day story about the old Baltimore Orioles, his favorite ball club.

The old Orioles, it seems, did their training here back in the years of 1905, 1906 and 1907 and won pennants all three years under Ned Hanlon, so your Uncle Wilbert still looks upon the town as being a lucky place in which to train a ball club. He is hoping the visit here will give the Crackers some luck this year.

Mr. Robinson, who is the president of the ball club, as you know, has been reading in the Atlanta papers where Manager Spencer Abbott had the players walking back from the ball park after their daily practices, despite the fact that they have a 10-cent taxi rate here. He con-"The old Orioles used to run back from the ball park after practice," your Uncle Wilbert then informed his attentive group of listeners. "But when we did that, old Ned Hanlon would make us do a lap apiece around the mile racetrack, jump the fence and light out for the old Brown house, which was where we stopped in those days.

Some of the Crackers who standing within earshot of Mr. Rob-inson, looked horrified, apparently fearing Spencer would take it as a suggestion

GOT LEGS IN SHAPE.

"Well, we did just that and we got our legs in shape early, too," Uncle Wilbert added.

And speaking of legs, that was where Uncle Wilbert, who was the star catcher of the old Orioles, came into Giants as the club for them all or try and beat this year.

"Well, we did just that and we got our legs in shape early, too," Uncle Wilbert added.

And speaking of legs, that was where Uncle Wilbert, who was the star catcher of the old Orioles, came into the picture. He led up to the subject of legs, another of his favorite subjects—speaking of ball players' legs, however—with great adroitness.

It seems that the old Orioles had to run through a colored section of the city on their jaunts back from the ball park. And the darkies would han out of their windows and shout with glee when they saw your stout uncle Wilbert Robinson come jogging long on his short, bottle-shaped legs.

His flowing handlebar moustache, such as all the Orioles wore, also the fancy of the colored folks.

"Say. that reminds me," your Uncle Wilbert explaimed, summoning over the veteran headwaiter in the local coffee shop. "Boy, how long have you been working here?"

"Fifteen years, suh," the head wafter replied politely.

"Then you wouldn't remember any of the old Orioles," Mr. Robinson said, sadly, returning to his breakfast of broiled fish on toast.

Here "Ma" Robinson, who had been listening with her customary refined quietness, interrupted her stout husband momentarily.

"All the old Orioles are dead except you and about two others," Mrs. Rosinson reminded him. And that ended the discussion.

In Georgia's GREAT Outdoors

The farmer who has a creek on his property and has not made a fish pond of it will find it an easy thing to do, and very valuable as a means of providing fresh fish for the table and as a source of some small cash income. If you can stock your pond and produce the fish you can rent fishing rights. It is being done everywhere in the state, and since there are not a great many natural there are not a great many natural lakes in Georgia, the more artificial ones we have the better will be our fishing facilities. Let your state game and fish department tell you how.

The state of New Jersey bought about 20,000 rabbits to be turned loose in that state to repopulate the fields. In a state the size of New Jersey, at the rate rabbits multiply, there should be a superabundance of rabbits. What we want to show from this, however, is that rabbits are regarded as real game and are entitled to full protection in the north. There is no reason why the rabbits here should not be so treated also. They are the best game to train a future hunter on. And a lot of growr-up boys get a lot of fun shooting at that "powder puff" as it bounces for the briar patch.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 19.—(P)—
The putting stroke that made him the most feared golfer in the world has Bobby Jones worried on the eve of his return to competition.

Thursday he re-enters tournament play in the masters' invitation event here and today, after almost a week of practice over the Augusta National Golf Club course, he was frankly ap-prehensive about his putting.

"I'm not putting well now," he said. "To score in a tournament you must be able to get down an occasional long put and I've been unable to do this with any consistency. I can drop the short ones but mostly it is the putts of 20 feet or more that bring the birdies." PUTTS MUST DROP.

The course here, while a good test of golf, is not unusually difficult, Bobby explained, and he figures the man who can hole his putts over these rolling greens is the one who will win.

"A good successful putting touch brings confidence," said Bobby, who will use a putter modeled after his famous "Calamity Jane" of other years.

"I believe I am hitting my wood shots and my long irons as well as in my former competitive years, perhaps better, but my putting is off.

"The putting touch is the hardest part of golf to keep consistently good and, if you haven't been playing a good deal, it is sometimes difficult to pick up the touch."

Is he as keen as ever to win? he was asked.

"Yes, I want to win every tourna-

"Yes, I want to win every tournament in which I play. The odds are great here against an individual's winning but I naturally am going to play my best and hope it will be good enough. I'll try to put four good enough to gether and let it get me where it will."

Bobby declined to express an opinion as to his own chances to win but did say that if he regains his putting touch and putts as well as he did in other tournaments of past years he believes the possibility of his leading the field is as good as in open competitions.

United States Conceded Doubles Match, But Not Singles. By Gayle Talbot.

LONDON, March 19.—(P)—Fred Perry, ace of Great Britain's Davis cup forces, returned from an Australian tour today with his arms loaded with trophies and his mind set on a rather startling discovery—that Japan, and not Australia, or the Unit-ed States, offers the chief threat to Britain's tennis rule. "They have a pair of youngsters, ideo Nishimura and Jiro Fujikura.

Hideo Nishimura and Jiro Fujikura, both better than Jiro Satch and Ryosuke Nunoi, the veterans, and that's plenty good," he said. "The crucial match probably will come between Australia and Japan at Wimbledon in May, with the winner meeting the United States in the interzone finals. "My guess is that we will meet Japan in the challenge round and they will be mean to beat on the grass at Wimbledon."

grass at Wimbledon."

Perry came back from Australia and way stations "feeling great" but lacking respect for the ability of Jack Crawford, the Anzac ace who won only once in their four major meetings last year, but always made the going rugged. Australia won't be the threat in 1934 that it was in 1933, when Crawford, Vivian McGrath, Don Turphull and Adrian Ouist went to

"Crawford definitely is not the player he was," Perry said. "He has never been as good since I beat him in the American finals at Forest Hills last summer and he doesn't seem much interested in tennis now."

interested in tennis now."

Perry is willing to concede the United States the doubles match in any Davis cup play, but he fails to see where any combination can be developed overseas that can challenge him and Bunny Austin in singles. He thinks Frank Shields, top-ranked American, and Lester Stoefen, the big Californian, who won the indoor American, and Lester Stoeren, the big Californian, who won the indoor title, are the likeliest United States singles pair but he doesn't seem inclined to worry about them.

"You must remember." he says, "that Austin is one of the world's renat Austin is one of the world's greatest on the grass courts at Wimbledon and it will be no fun for auylone meeting him. Besides, the odds are on our side because we're on our home grounds and have nothing to worry about except the challenge round."

Amoug those to be reckoned with in the matter of heavy artillery are Craig Wood, Bobby Jones, Tommy Armour, Leo Diegel and Ed Dudley—not overlooking several of the younger stars who can step into the middle of a wallop.

Regarding reports that he might eventually join Bill Tilden's profes-sional troupe, Perry professed to be "completely in the dark" but he left "completely in the dark" but he left a very definite impression that he wouldn't be offended if he were made an offer. He expects to defend his American title "if the British Tennis Association sends me" and thinks he might settle permanently in the Unit-ed States some day.

THE OLD-TIME PARADE.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 19 .- This Masters' tournament at Augusta starting on Thursday, will carry more than one important chapter from the blue book of golf.

Among those invited and expected are Freddie McLeod, who won the U. S. open at Myopia more than 25 years back; Mac Smith, who tied the the U. S. open in Philadelphia just 25 years back; Walter Hagen, who won his first crown at Midlothian, Chicago, in 1914; Chick Evans, who carried away both the open and the amateur championships in 1916; Long Jim Barnes, who bagged the big prize at Columbia in 1921; Jock Hutchinson, who took over the British Open that same year.

It will be interesting to see how these and other old-time stars are still hitting the ball-how well their swings have held up-how well they can score.

And there is Leo Diegel, who al-most won at Inverness in 1920—still one of the longest hitters in golf— still one of its most attractive fig-ures, capable at any time of setting a dizzy pace.

How Far Can They Drive? This tournament will answer an other important debate.

How far can the longest-hitting pros and amateurs carry—and what is the average carry of the high-grade golf-

I believe an average around 250 on the carry for three drives will lead the punching parade and that the general average, even among the higher brackets of the game, will hardly pass 230. This long-driving contest, arranged on level ground, will help settle many an argument. You hear of golfers who have carried 275 or even 300 yards. Most of this is a myth. If true, there was an elevated tee and a keen and helping wind.

There will also be a test of iron play at 190 yards. Jimmy Thompson, of Long Beach, Cal., is about as long a Gus Moreland is an amateur to be reckoned with as his medal play, has equaled that of many leading pros, and he is capable of setting a blistering pace.

What Can Happen.

So many things can happen at any given moment in golf that picking winners is about as much of a certainty as hitting a certain number on a roulette wheel.

In a discussion that came up

In a discussion that came up recently someone pointed to the amazing experience of Bobby Jones in his last round at Hoylake. Coming to a certain green he was 20 yards from the edge in 2, and yet needed a 7 to find the bottom of the cup. And this happened without Jones actually missing a shot? How?

There was a distinct rise or up.

There was a distinct rise or up-slope in front of the green. Just be-yond the pin there was another sharp downward dip. To get the ball close for a 4 it was necessary to have the ball just make the rise and then drift downward to the cur. Jones drift downward to the cup. Jones played the chip as he intended to, but as the ball came to the top of the slope it stopped and drifted back. His next chip just managed to catch the sharp down slope beyond the pin—the ball rolling 30 feet from the cup. His approach putt, over the ridge, drift-ed 3 feet away and he missed his tan for a 6.

Almost exactly the same thing happened to him at Winged Foot on the 15th green, where he was just over in 2, resting in the grass, and finally needed a 7 to finish out the hole.

There are several holes at the Au-

There are several holes at the Augusta National, where a bad drive can lead a world of woe among the pines and dogwoods, the maples and the vines. And more than one star now practicing has already acquired dark foreboding about the 490-yard dog-leg fourth with its double guard of brook and ditch.

"I've never seen a hole," Ed Dud-ley remarked, "where you can step into a 6 or a 7 so quickly."

Ouarles Defeats

Georgia Fields And Streams

By H. A. Carter. Last Sunday I caught an idea that spring was in the air, and consequently caught a cold, but I did get a lot of fun from branching out a bit from a concentrated dose of frog work and seeing what else the current season could offer. And I found a lot. Did you ever notice Salix discolor at this time of year? Possibly you know the plant better, as I do, that is, by the name of pussy willow. Those, on my place are blooming away in fine style. The soft gray catkins were getting bigger and bigger until Sunday, when they exploded into a maze of yellow. The flower buds on the Japanese mulberry are getting bigger every day, too. I hope the weather will remain warm so the flowers won't be killed. I fear that is too much of a hope, however.

Other willows are showing real leaves, too. The first leaves of spring, so far as I have been able to learn. The weeping willow on my place is showing a bright green on all branches. I threatened to ask my wife to identify these willows by the botanical bible. Gray's Manual. She retorted that better botanists than she had come near losing their minds over such a job, and that she didn't care to take the responsibility. She will weaken when the leaves are out. I

Burlesque Patrons at Atlanta U.S., ARGENTINA Return of Hap Farnell Delights

Return of Hap Farnell is the big news of the week at the Atlanta theater. At both shows Monday, as well as the midnight matinee, the audignce gave him a salvo of applause at his first appearance that left no doubt in any mind that he is the prime favorite of Atlanta burlesque fans. And Hap responded with some of his own peculiar type of humor that is funny, even when he isn't doing or saying anything.

Next high spot of the week's program must go to Carmen, the dancer. For the third week she stops the show with her dancing. First appearance is in an elaborate number towards the close of the first act. A giant Buddha towers up at the back, while incense pots send their smoke across his meditative eyes. Elephants on either side bear white-skinned coryphees, while the circle of girls pose as temp'e attendants.

And in the middle Carmen does a the dancing, as is right, carrying off

And in the middle Carmen does a dance that is worth every ounce of the applause that bursts forth a the final exit. In the second act she does a Spanish dance with her partiner, just as good.

Special mention should be made this week of the volcano setting, with the white lava pouring down the mountain sides and the hula girls dancing before it. The screen feature this week, also is exceptionally good and I shouldn't be surprised if quite a few people don't consider it the best picture in town. When the Capitol does decide to give exceptional entertainment there's nothing half-hearted about it. It seems that a better stage show calls for a better screen attraction. Which is quite nice for this week's patrons.—RALPH T. JONES.

South American Country Desperately in Need of Meat Market.

By GIDEON SEYMOUR.
BUENOS AIRES, March 19.—(AP)
Efforts to bring about a reciprocal trade agreement between the United States and Argentina, both producing many identical commodities, will put the Roosevelt administration's tariff nomically.

The annual Argentine production of mutton for export would not provide a meal a year for all the residents of the United States, and Argentina is ready to make far-reaching concessions in return for a meat outlet.

For six years, because of foot-and-mouth disease among Argentine catmouth disease among Argentine cat-tle, Argentine meat has been barred from the United States except in cans. Argentina calls the ban bald cans. Argentina cans the ban ban super-protectionism disguised as a sanitary measure. Officials declared that suitable inspection could be made there of all meats, permitting exports without danger to American herds.

Splendid Opening Day For Opera Seat Sale

For Opera Seat Sale

Opening of the advance sale for the two-week session of opera which is to be given at the Erlanger theater by the New York Grand Opera Association on Monday demonstrated the fact that this city is one of the most appreciative of opera in the world.

Despite the fact that the season does not open until April 23, there was a highly pleasing demand for seats and the early rush indicated that before the curtain rises a large part of the house will be sold out for many of the 16 performances.

There are two box offices open, one at the theater and one at Cable Piano Company, for the benefit of patrons who find it more convenient to call at the downtown location.

to call at the downtown location. With Carmela Ponselle, sister of Rosa, and herself a splendid mezzo soprano, heading the company, and with Producer Franck assuring performances that in every detail will be first-class, the city will again enjoy opera as it should be given. And, most remarkable feature of all, the converge for any performance is for any performance is

Lillian Mae Patterns

CAPE TO FLATTER THE LARGER FIGURE. PATTERN 1680.

According to latest fashion dictates—the frock with the large cape is going to be very popular during the warm weather season. Today's model is particularly flattering to the larger figure for its deep, gracefully flared cape conceals a full bust and stout arms. Pointed seamings and lengthgiving skirt pleats achieve an illusion of slenderness. A printed silk or one of the new sheers would be loveliest of the new sheers would be loveliest for it. The cape may be contrasting, if desired. You'll never need worry about what to wear, when you can slip into this frock and look your smartest—for any occasion.

Pattern 1680 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 4 1-8 yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instruc-

HOW MANY NAMES OF PLACES IN WHICH THE

YOU CONNECT WITHOUT CROSSING YOUR OATH?

That's what you are to determine. Sounds easy doesn't it? And it is easy. Right, is a map of the United States on which the names of a number of Places are shown. Without any trouble you can readily see names of such places as "Atlanta," "Chicago," "Seattle," "Savannah," "Charleston," etc., which contain the letter "A" in their spelling, can't you? Well, the others are just as easy to see, but the idea is to see who can draw a straight line from "dot" to "dot," connecting the MOST "A" Places.

Little Dipper are part of the stars in the group known as the Dragon. The Dragon's tail is between the two dippers, and its body winds part way around the cup part of the Little Dipper, then twists away from it.

I do not promise that you will find a good outline of a dragon—in fact. I think it is rather weak "picture." On the other hand I like the great outline of the Sickle. To locate it, run your eyes from the cup of the Little Dipper until you come to the bright stars which make an excellent outline of a sickle.

People living 100,000 years from now will find different figures in the sky. The Big Dipper will turn into a form which looks something like a steamer chair. We know this because we have learned that the star at the end of the handle and the upper star at the end of the cup are moving "downward" while all the rest are moving "upward."

Mrs. Kemp Withdraws As Congress Candidate

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—(49)
After having been declared elected illegally, Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp issued a statement from her home at Amite, announcing that she would not become a candidate in the elections called for April and May in the sixth congressional district to choose a successor to her late husband, Representative Kemp.

I can see many possibilities in this quilt. NANCY PAGE

This Quilt Deserves To Go in a Hope Box By FLORENCE La GANKE.

From Welland, Canada, to Nancy Page quilt members all over the United States and Canada, comes this new quilt block called The Box. Mrs. E. Lemley is the generous person, who shares the pattern with us. She says that her great grandmother gave this pattern to her mother and Mrs. Lemley's mother in turn passed the pattern on to her daughter. I can see many possibilities in this quilt. You can have each box of a different color making the inner square of a light color or white, in all cases, but making the two upper parts of the box of a lighter shade than is used in the two lower parts.

for the triangle and then have the strip of a plain color in some light shade the triangles would not blend into the background but would stand "Nancy, I don't believe I want those triangles to stand out. I think I would rather have them, and the connecting strips, of white. Then the boxes would be even more striking."

"You may be right. Try it at any

"You may be right. Try it at any rate."

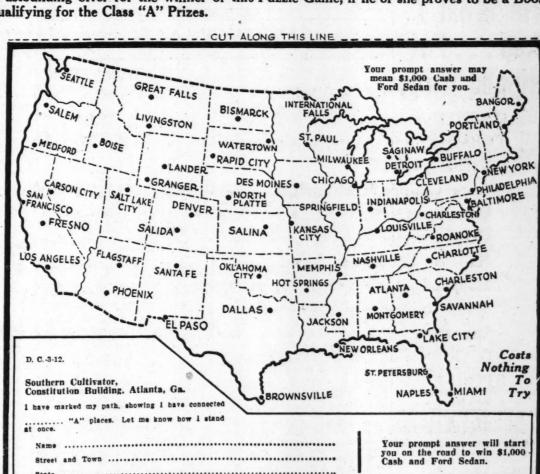

The quilt club members sent for the working pattern for this quilt. They cliped the picture and directions as found in the paper also, and pasted that for future references in their quilt scrap book.

In cutting the pieces they were careful to allow one quarter inch on all sides. No seam allowance has been made on the patterns as given. The members chose fast color material, used No. 60 white thread for piecins. They made the quilts with a white back and an interlining of a cotton batt. The quilting was easy for it followed the pieced lines on the quilt top.

The actual pattern for "The Box"
Quilt Design may be obtained by sending 3 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Nancy Page in care of The Atlanta Constitution. Back patterns may be secured by sending an additional 3 cents.

on reports that the Bankhead cotton control bill had been passed by the house.

May contracts after selling off to 11.86, or about 27 points net lower, rallied to 12.07 and closed at 11.96, with the general market closing steady a tent declines of 13 to 17 points. Initial prices were 2 to 5 points lower. Later July contracts sold off to 11.96 and October to 12.10, making net losses of about 24 to 28 points on the active positions.

Some stop orders were uncovered on the decline. After their execution, pressure subsided.

Active months recovered some 19 to 20 points of their earlier losses with October selling up to 12.29, but demand failed to broaden and the market again sold off under renewed liquidation. Closing quotations were within 8 to 12 points of the lowest for the day on most positions.

Southern selling was said to be more in evidence than in some time. Exports today 17,690, making 5,800,952 so far this season. Port receipts 9,380. United States port stocks 3,204,525.

By JOHN L. COOLEY. NEW YORK, March 19.-(P)-Declines prevailed in the financial market today. Stocks gave up roughly 1 to 3 points and domestic corporation bonds, which late last week developed signs of easiness, were more definitely lower. Commodities also favored the downside, though cotton, after passage of the Bankhead bill by the house, reduced earlier losses.

Labor matters loomed large in the day's news and speculative quarters expressed their uncertainty as to the outcome of current differences by moderate offerings in the security markets. Stocks had a rather active dip around noon, but most of the day 2 Arch D M (1)

Silver metal slumped again, though not as sharply as last Thursday.

United States Smelting lost 3 1-2

Several aircrafts, alcohols, chemicals and farm implements were generally losers, while some rails yielded 1 to 2 points.

Steel trade reviews have been saying that orders from railroads and miscellaneous consumers have been offsetting smaller takings by automobile manufacturers who face labor uncertainties. This week's production average compiled by the American Iron & Steel Institute would appear to bear out this view, since the figure has risen to 46.8 per cent week ago.

German bonds broke sharply and the reichsmark sagged. COTTON IN NEW ORLEANS

DECLINES 15 TO 19 POINTS

NEW ORLEANS. March 19.—(AP)

Although house passage of the Bankhead cotton control bill influenced enough demand to wipe out early loss of 33 to 34 points in cotton today, wher selling entered the market in the afternoon and the close was barely steady at net declines of 15 to 19 points. Unfavorable strike reports and weakness in other markets were the incentives behind the afternoon decline.

mendations to our clients. No cost or obligation.

While Liverpool cables came slightly better than due, the early market there was reported quiet with trade calling supplied by long liquidation and hedge selling. Houses with Liverpool connections were credited with buying some cotton here on the differences and Japanese interests were reported buyers of May during the early trading, while the continent was a seller.

NEW YORK, March 19.—(A)—The threatening labor situation apparently brought further profit-taking in the bond market today and prices of the more active issues were the heaviest several weeks.

more active issues were the heaviest in several weeks.

While the trading volume was not large, transfers totaling only $14.065.000 par value, the average for 60 domestic corporate loans declined fourtenths of a point.

The United States government list was mildly mixed at the close, but a sharp break in the German division unsettled the foreign department. Federal bonds displayed a firm undertone most of the day. Highest grade corporate issues eased with the rest of the market. Most other foreign loans were quiet and easier.

Domestic rail liens generally were under pressure. Among the more active losers of 1 to 2 or more points were some issues of Alleghany Corporation. Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corporation, Missouri Pacific and Southern. Bonds of such companies as Santa Fé. Norfolk & Western and Chesapeake & Ohio were moderately lower.

Some resistance was shown by scattered utilities and industrials, but declines of 1 to around 2 points were recorded by loans of American I. G. Chemical, American Rolling Mill, American Telephone, American Water Works, International Telephone and Postal Telegraph.

CHICAGO, March 19 .- (P)-Mis- and official reports, to make a carechicago, March 19.—(P)—Misgivings about labor unrest did much

A maximum setback of 1 3-4 cents a bushel for wheat took place, but much of this loss was overcome later owing in considerable degree to cotton control bill. In some quarters, enactment of a similar measure to govern wheat production has been forecast.

Wheat closed nervous, 1-4 to 5-8 Wheat closed nervous, 1-4 to 5-8 cents under Saturday's finish; corn unchanged to 1-4 cent lower; oats 1-5 to 1-4 cent down, and provisions varying from 20 cents decline to an advance of 2 cents.

Liquidating sales on the part of holders of futures dominated the wheat pit most of the day, with stoples of corn to arrive here were light.

Despite hog market upturns, provisions reflected weakness of cereals.

MACON, Ga., March 19 .- (AP)-Splurging the state's pride and productivity, the Middle Georgia Business Recovery exposition opened tonight in the Macon auditorium.

An ever-widening stream of visitors arrived after the opening time at 7 p. m., and several hundred people sauntered down the "midways" be tween 50 complete exhibits. The earth is full of coal and gas yet the poor shiver. The sick agonize over the expense of illness while living near them are those who would gladly give of their means to alleviate the distress if only they knew the facts. How strange it is that the sciences of economics and sociology cannot work out the solution of the vexing problems!

The Suicide Squeeze.

As Mr. Wilfred Bland, of Minneap lis, Minn., points out, the play of in-ucing one of the opponents of the De-larer to squeeze his partner's hand, which unfortunately occurs very rare-y, is one of the most interesting types of squeeze play.

In proof of this statement, Mr.
Bland sent me the hand below, in which the other players, all well-known in Minneapolis, are among the valid. northwest's finest players. In addition to being a splendid example of the suicide squeeze, it also presents the rare spectacle of the Declarer winning the only two tricks in a suit with the ace and deuce.

statutes gave that state a valid prior lien to the assets of national banks which became state depositories. The question arose when the Han-cock National Bank of Sparta, Ga... a state depository, failed.

federal district court held the surety company must satisfy its claim as a general creditor, and refused to give it a prior lien on the assets of the failed bank.

The fifth circuit court of appeals reversed that ruling, and held that the right, under the depositors bond giv-en by the bank in 1928, to a prior

J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency, urged a final decision by the highest court, stressing the importance of a decision in the settlement of the affairs of 1,450 national banks in receiverships as well as to the 5,285 solvent national banks.

He contended the ruling was contrary to a decision of the supreme court on February 5, last, in the case of the city of Marion, Ill., against the receiver of the City National bank, of Herrin, Ill. He insisted that decision had established national banks were not authorized to pledge their assets to secure state deposits prior assets to secure state deposits prior to the act of congress of June 25, 1930.

Unfortunately, however, unless the spade play is tried immediately (or at the latest after four club leads) the ace of hearts must be sacrificed for entry purposes, and in that event, if the finesse misses, and the diamonds prove to be a five-card suit, the hand will be set two tricks.

to be a five-card suit, the hand will be set two tricks.

South decided to await developments, and proceeded to take five leads of clubs. On the second club lead East played the heart seven, followed by two small hearts and the diamond knave. natural inference from the discards is that East is holding one small diamond to lead to his partner, has the king and knave of hearts, and is protecting the king of spades.

A squeeze play seemed to be indicated, and as South was not in a position to make this himself, he led a diamond from dummy, so that West might do the squeezing. East's hand proved to be correctly diagnosed (his original holding was king and one spade, seven hearts to the king-knave, three diamonds, and one club), and when West took four diamond tricks, East was hopelessly squeezed, finally discarding to the lone king of hearts and the king and one spade. When a heart was finally led, the queen of hearts fell in the dummy, two hearts having been discarded, but the ace took the trick. Since all the other hearts had been played, the heart deuce was good for the next trick and the ace of spades made game. It is interesting to note that West is entirely helpless in the matter, even though she senses the situation, for if she does not lead her diamonds, either a heart or spade lead will enable South to snow in the East hand and get an end-play for the deciding trick. South originally had some hope that this play would develop, but the heart discards enabled him to place West with a singleton, so he could count on his deuce of hearts for a trick, although the capture of two tricks in a suit by a doubleton acedeuce is, to say the least, a little out E BERTLE STORY
